"She was not involved in this kind of work. If any party is going to be charged with any such criminal act in this report then they will be duly identified and punished. She is a good citizen who has a clean image," Minister of State for Home Kiren Rijiju told reporters. The report has been presented to the prime minister, sources said, adding that it is going to be distributed among the concerned ministries. The CBI has arrested several central ministers, including former Telecom Minister A Raja and DMK member Dayanidhi Maran, in the case. The controversy began in 2005 when the country's telecom regulator, the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India, (TRAI) decided to relax the norms of cellular spectrum allocation for services offered under the 2G category. Gujarat-based Raja was the Minister of state for Communications and Information Technology when this decision was taken. His role in the matter has been questioned in the media.St. Thomas Hospital scientists are participating in a trial that seeks to find more effective ways to prevent kidney disease in infants born to women with diabetes. A research team at St. Thomas Hospital in St. Paul is part of a National Institutes of Health clinical trial testing whether adding medication during pregnancy can prevent a significant number of cases of acute kidney disease in children who are born to mothers with diabetes. "Our hope is that this study will lead to a better understanding of how to reduce the disease in these infants as well as how best to help their mothers," said Dr. Debra Pezzullo, a developmental pediatrician and director of the Children's Hospital of Wisconsin's childhood kidney disease program. The study, called "Medication to Improve Glucose Control (mIMAGINE)," has enrolled more than 4,000 women with gestational diabetes, a high blood sugar condition that affects more than 7 percent of women at the time of conception. About 40 percent of these women have diabetes that is "
