Adobe Photoshop is a powerful image editing and manipulation tool that lets you create and edit images, video, and 3D graphics. Whether you're editing a logo, painting a landscape, or making a web design, Photoshop can help you turn your ideas into a reality. Not all programs perform the same tasks, but this tool does pretty much anything you can think of that involves editing a picture. Here are some of the different uses of Photoshop for Windows: Web Design When thinking of a web designer, you might think of a web page or an application that runs on a browser. Photoshop, however, can be used to build the page for you. It has a nice drag-and-drop interface, making it easy to fill in your web page with things like shapes, images, and text. Here are a few ways that Photoshop can be used to build web pages: Creating a page from scratch. You can use photoshop to build an entire web page from the ground up. If you have a design in mind, you can create a web page using Photoshop. However, if you don't have a design in mind, you can use the panels in Photoshop to figure out what kind of page you want and how you want it to look. Editing an existing page. Many websites have a code for editing pages so that things like color and fonts can be changed. Photoshop makes it easy to change things like colors, shadows, and lighting. Creating a layout. In some programs, creating a web page means designing a layout, such as one that has a company logo, a sidebar, and a photo gallery. However, the tools in Photoshop let you do all of these things easily, from dragging and dropping things into the photo, to arranging and sizing text into boxes, to adding drop shadows. Creating a logo. There are tools in Photoshop that allow you to add shadows and highlights to a photo to turn it into a logo. Making a logo. If you're designing a logo, Photoshop can be used to make the text or a collection of photos into a logo. Creating a Web-based Mobile Application When you're looking for a way to make your web page mobile friendly, you need to look for a program that will let you easily design the page to be available on mobile devices. Here are a few Adobe programs that make designing mobile friendly pages easy: Air Air lets
